1. THE INFORMATION WE COLLECT

There are two kinds of information websites can obtain about you:

(A) Anonymous Information: “Anonymous Information” is data that does not contain information that identifies an individual, which websites and online services use to administer their sites and provide their products and services. Anonymous information can include certain personally identifiable information that has been de-identified; that is, information that has been rendered anonymous. It may include such information as your browser type, your Internet Protocol (IP) address, or information related to your use of the Sites, such as the page served, time of request, preceding page viewed, referring web site address, and other similar information, and may include the use of “cookies” or other tracking technologies. Company may from time to time retain third parties to help us collect and aggregate anonymous information about visitors’ use of Sites.

Device Information. We may collect non-personal information about the computer, mobile device, or other device you use to access the Site, such as IP address, geolocation information, unique device identifiers, browser type, browser language, and other transactional information. Web servers automatically identify your device by its IP address. We do not link IP addresses to any Personally Identifiable Information, even if such information is voluntarily provided by a user or visitor. The Site also may gather anonymous “traffic data” that does not personally identify you, but that may be helpful for marketing purposes or for improving the products and services we offer.

Cookie and Web Beacon Information. As is the case with many websites and web-based applications, the Sites use a technology called “cookies,” which are small data files that are downloaded onto your computer or mobile device. The use of cookies is standard on the Internet, and allows us to tailor your visits to the Site to your individual preferences. When you access the Site, a web beacon allows us to capture certain additional types of information about your activities and use of the Site over time, such as which web pages you choose to visit and details about any items that you purchase. Although most web browsers automatically accept cookies, you can change your browser to prevent cookies or notify you whenever you are sent a cookie. However, if you disable or block cookies on your browser, certain features on the Site may not work correctly.

(B) Personally Identifiable Information: “Personally Identifiable Information” is any information that personally identifies you, such as your name, email address, billing address, shipping address, credit card information, or your telephone number. DLLC does not maintain Personally Identifiable Information on file in its records; it does not sell, license or provide any information to third parties. Even though the Site’s Configuration Wizard allows the user to enter their name, email, company name, and phone number to get an estimate mailed to them or to us, the website does not maintain any record of this information.

2. HOW WE USE GATHERED INFORMATION

The information you share with us may be used in a few ways:

(A) Anonymous Information: Anonymous Information is used internally for Site administration, troubleshooting, and to help improve the quality of this Site and its design. We may also use non-personally identifiable information to help analyze trends and statistics, and protect the security and integrity of Sites. We may share such aggregated, non-personally identifiable information, such as demographics, with existing and prospective business partners and advertisers. We never connect aggregate information with Personally Identifiable Information, and none of the Anonymous Information we share will contain any information that identifies you individually.

(B) Personally Identifiable Information: Personally Identifiable Information collected by DLLC may be used for purposes including administration of the Site, support registration and services, and communications with you. In all cases, however, we will only use your information as permitted by law. We may also disclose Personally Identifiable Information if we are required to do so by law or we in good faith believe that such action is necessary to (a) comply with the law or with legal process; (b) protect and defend our rights and property; (c) protect against misuse or unauthorized use of the Site; or (d) protect the personal safety or property of our users or the public. Please note we may not provide you with notice prior to disclosure in such cases.

3. OPT-OUT

We support the right of visitors to choose. The Site may provide you the option to opt-out to receive any promotional materials about DLLC. If you do not opt-out at that time, but later decide that you do not wish to receive future communications of this nature you can contact us at webmaster@datamed.com or at the address provided below, indicating that you no longer want to receive information relating to this Site.

4. SECURITY

Security of information communicated by or to us over the Internet is of utmost concern to us; however, no data transmission over the Internet can be guaranteed to be 100% secure. This Site incorporates reasonable safeguards to protect the security, integrity and privacy of the personal information we have collected. We have put in place reasonable precautions to protect information from loss, misuse and alteration, including Secure Socket Layer (SSL) technology and database encryption. Please do not use email to communicate information to us that you consider confidential. While we strive to protect your personal information, DLLC cannot ensure or warrant the security of any information you transmit to us or through this Site.

5. DISCLOSURE OF INFORMATION THROUGH BUSINESS TRANSFERS

As we continue to develop our business, we may buy, merge or partner with other companies or businesses, and in so doing, acquire customer information. In such transactions, user information may be among the transferred assets. Similarly, in the event that a portion or substantially all of DLLC’s assets are sold or transferred to a third party, customer information (including Personally Identifiable Information) would likely be one of the transferred business assets.

6. OUR COMMITMENT TO CHILDREN'S PRIVACY

Protecting the privacy of children is very important to us. The Children's Online Privacy and Protection Act of 1998 (“COPPA”) defines a “Child” as anyone under the age of 13. DLLC strictly adheres to COPPA. For that reason, we do not collect or maintain information obtained through our Site from those we actually know are under 13, and no part of our Site is structured to attract anyone under 13.

Inclusion of any linked website on this Site does not imply or express an approval or endorsement of the linked website by us, or of any of the content, opinions, products or services provided on these websites. Even if an affiliation exists between our Site and a third-party website, we exercise no control over linked sites. Each of these linked sites maintains its own independent privacy and data collection policies and procedures. While DLLC expects its partners and affiliates to respect the privacy of our users, DLLC cannot be responsible for the actions of third parties. If you visit a website that is linked to from our Site, we encourage you to consult that website's privacy policy before providing any personal information and whenever interacting with any website.

If you do not agree with this Policy, please do not disclose any personal information through this Site. This Policy and the use of this Site are governed by Tennessee law. This Policy and the notices outlined herein are not intended to and do not create any contractual or other legal rights in or on behalf of any third party.

9. SPECIAL NOTICE TO CALIFORNIA RESIDENTS

Under the California Civil Code, residents of the State of California that have provided any Personally Identifiable Information to DLLC have the right to request a list of all third parties to which DLLC has disclosed Personally Identifiable Information during the preceding year for direct marketing purposes. Alternatively, the law provides that if DLLC has a privacy policy that gives either an opt-out or opt-in choice for use of Personally Identifiable Information by third parties (such as advertisers or affiliated companies) for marketing purposes, DLLC may instead provide you with information on how to exercise your disclosure choice options free of charge. DLLC qualifies for the alternative option and has adopted a policy of not disclosing the personal information of customers to third parties for the third parties' direct marketing purposes under any circumstances. It has established this Policy that provides you with details on how you may either opt-out of the use of your Personally Identifiable Information by third parties for direct marketing purposes. If you are a California resident and would like to request information about how to exercise your third party disclosure choices, please send a request to webmaster@datamed.com with a preference on how our response to your request should be sent.

If our policy in this regard ever changes, DLLC will take reasonable measures to protect the confidentiality of Social Security numbers and limit access to those with a need for such information. DLLC would also prohibit the unlawful disclosure of Social Security numbers.
